AMI Marine website

In some cases the material on the AMI Sales website may incorporate or summarise views, guidelines or recommendations of third parties. AMI Sales makes every effort to provide accurate and detailed pictures and descriptions for the products we sell. However, there may be cases where slight details about a particular product have either changed since the picture/description was created, or the manufacturer has supplied inaccurate information about a product. Further, photographs of products do not look identical on every computer monitor. Products seen in person may vary from the way it looks on your computer with regards to colour tones, hues, contrast and brightness levels. Please keep this in mind if you are buying a product based on the picture or description we have. AMI accepts no responsibility for any error or discrepancy in relation to product descriptions, sizes, material types or to availability of product. All prices stated are subject to change without prior notice.
